ECCLESIASTICAL RISK SERVICES LIMITED

Managing health and safety makes good business sense

Facing up to your responsibilities

All organisations must comply with health and safety regulations. However, the constantly changing legislation means that many people struggle to keep up to date with their obligations. Failure to manage health and safety can threaten the survival of your organisation – custodial sentences, large fines, compensation payments and loss of reputation can all result from an accident.

Act now to safeguard you, your workers and your organisation.

A professional service

Ecclesiastical Risk Services offer a bespoke health and safety service that will help you identify risks to your business and show you how to meet your responsibilities. Whether your business is large or small, whether you're looking for a complete health and safety support service or you want us to focus on a specific need, we can help. Our team of qualified and experienced consultants can help you design and implement effective systems to reduce risk and manage all aspects of health and safety.

More than 200 people are killed at work each year and over one million are injured. Over two million suffer illness caused by, or made worse by, their work.

Why choose us?

- No fixed-term contracts – you only pay for the services you need.
- Flexible payment plans – spread the cost over 12 months.
- Discounts for Ecclesiastical policyholders.

About our service

We understand that all organisations are different with unique health and safety requirements. That's why we provide a health and safety service that focuses on what you really need.

Auditing – a health and safety audit will show how your organisation measures up to legal requirements. It will also act as a benchmark from which we can help you produce a health and safety action plan.

Management systems – we can help your organisation develop and implement your health and safety management systems so that they are both effective and compliant with best practice.

Policy writing – a written health and safety policy is a legal requirement for organisations with five or more employees. The policy details responsibility, organisation and arrangements for health and safety. We are able to write bespoke policies for your operations.

Risk assessment – our consultants will identify hazards, who can be harmed by them and help you put into place practical control measures to reduce the risk.

Advice and support – for organisations that do not employ their own health and safety professionals we can help by acting as your competent person for health and safety advice. We can provide support and guidance to help you meet your legal and moral responsibilities.

Ignorance is no defence

Managing Director jailed for manslaughter on the basis of what he should have known following the death of an employee. The company's Area Manager was also jailed for the same offence.

Care home fined £90,000 after the tragic death of a 95 year old woman in their care and ordered to pay £19,247 in costs.
